Mass Tort & Class Action Litigation

Free Initial Consultation

Mass tort and class action litigation play crucial roles in ensuring justice for individuals who have suffered physical injury or economic harm. We understand the complexities of these cases and are dedicated to achieving justice for every client, respecting your unique circumstances.

Whether you've suffered physical injury or economic harm, our experienced lawyers are here to guide you through the legal process. Our practice covers a wide range of cases, including:

- Product liability, such as defective medical devices, pharmaceuticals, motor vehicles, foods, beverages, and more
- Hospital, nursing home, and daycare outbreaks
- Institutional abuse cases, representing individuals against institutions like residential schools or psychiatric hospitals
- Mass accidents and environmental disasters like plane crashes or train derailments

Class Actions

In class action lawsuits, we bring together individuals with similar injuries or grievances against organizations. This approach levels the playing field, enabling you to collectively seek compensation and hold corporations accountable.

Mass Tort Actions

Mass tort actions allow individuals to bring their cases against a defendant alongside others facing similar situations. Unlike class action lawsuits, where a representative pursues the claim for all class members, mass tort actions allow you to pursue your case individually.
